A.

Hundreds of millions of people around the world are hungry. According to the United Nations (UN), there are over 800 million hungry people in the world, and the number is growing.

Why is the number growing? In a UN report, climate change is among the key reasons for the hunger problem. In some areas, there is too much rain, and the crops are not growing in a good way. In other areas, it is too dry, and plants can't get enough water.

In these poor areas, people are not just hungry. Many hungry children are stunted. These children don't have enough food or the right kind of food, so they can't grow up healthily. This is a serious problem, and we should do something about it.

(A) Children have enough right food.

B.

Many people are working on possible solutions to the hunger problem, and Jagger Gorden is one of them. With his plan, he can feed thousands of people a week. How can he do this?

The supermarkets and shops in his neighborhood help him. They give him not-so-fresh but still-good-to-eat fruit and vegetables. They also give him some meat or fish. The meat and fish are not good enough for sale, but they are good enough for Gorden's plan. There are volunteers in Gorden's shop. They cook for hungry people with the food from the supermarkets.

The food in Gorden's shop is not for free nor for sale. People just pay as much money for the food as they can. People without money can work as volunteers in the shop for food.

- ( ) 3. How can hungry people get food in Gorden's shop?
