Hills and trees look fresh and green

And I see rainbow colored umbrellas in the streets

Be Yourself

Summer vacation is coming. Lizzy, Doris, Amanda, Brian, and Enzo are talking about their plans for the summer. Lizzy says her family planned a hiking trip in the mountains nearby. That isn't very special to her friends because most of them are traveling to other countries.

Story Time (optional)

On her family hiking trip, all Lizzy can think about is how cool everybody else's trip is. She says to herself, "Next time, I'll get my parents to take the family somewhere special, too."

As the summer vacation comes to a close, Lizzy starts to get excited about seeing her friends again at school. However, she is also nervous and thinks to herself, "I hope they still like me and want to hang out with me, even though I didn't go anywhere or do anything fun."

Doris comes into the classroom with a head of bright red hair. She sees Lizzy and says, "Hey, Lizzy! How was your trip? My trip to London was so much fun. Oh yeah, I also changed my hair because all the cool kids there wear their hair like this. Black hair is now out." Lizzy thinks to herself, "I need to dye my hair red, too."

Amanda is the next person to enter the classroom. She walks over to them and says, "Hi, guys! I had a great time in Kyoto. Did you know that many girls there put white make-up on their faces? Well, I can tell by your face, Lizzy, that you didn't know that." Lizzy's face turns red and she thinks to herself, "I need to go get some white make-up."

Then Brian walks in with a pair of big, black shoes on his feet. He says, "Good morning, my friends. Seoul was a cool city with lots of cool K-pop stars. They really love these big, black shoes." Lizzy looks down at her white sneakers and thinks to herself, "I also need those big, black shoes."

Enzo is the last to come into the classroom. When he sees everyone, he smiles and says, "Hey everyone! How did your trips go? Mine was a blast! I joined a basketball camp in Brooklyn, and many players there had Afros. You're not cool without one." Now, Lizzy feels embarrassed, and she will do anything to get her friends' respect again.

Lizzy wants to be like her friends, so she decides to go shopping after school. She also goes to a hair stylist to get a new hair style. She tells herself, "Finally, I'll be as cool as everyone else and fit in."

(The next day)

At school, Lizzy goes up to her friends and asks, "What do you think? My style is pretty cool, right?" Doris answers, "Um, Lizzy, why are you dressed like a clown?" Lizzy feels really embarrassed. This time, she thinks to herself, "It isn't a good idea to try and be like everyone else."
