Emma McKeon is now a rising star in Australia. This young swimmer comes from a swimming family. Her brother and her father are both Olympic swimmers.

To join Olympic games and become one of the world's best swimmer, she knows that she must practice every day and do everything properly. First, she starts her day at about five-thirty and goes to the pool. She usually has a small snack like a banana on her way out. She gets to the pool at six o'clock and then warms up before jumping into the pool. The morning training lasts for two hours. After that, she heads home, eats breakfast, and has a break until noon.

From one o'clock to three o'clock, she eats lunch and then studies. When the school is on holidays, she spends the time watching TV, resting, or reading. She practices again in the afternoon. She is back in the pool by three-twenty and swims for two hours. The afternoon training is always the main set, so it is harder and more tiring.

After training, she gets home between six o'clock and six-thirty. She makes something quick for dinner because she is very hungry. People don't know that she enjoys cooking, but she is not good at it. In the evenings, she either watches TV or reads a book and then gets to bed at about nine o'clock because she has to get up so early again the next morning.

Most countries in the world celebrate Mother's day in May, but Father's Day is different. The date of Father's Day is different around the world. In the USA, after seeing Mother's Day become a national holiday, a daughter wanted to celebrate Father's Day on June 5 in 1910 because it was her father's birthday. In 1966, the president of the USA made the third Sunday of June Father's Day. People in Australia and four other countries in the southern hemisphere also wanted to celebrate it in a nice season. That's why it is on the first Sunday in September, and the first Sunday in spring. Father's Day is on March 19 in Spain. It is the birthday of one of the greatest people in their religion. Closer to home, people in Thailand have Father's Day on December 5. It is also the birthday of their king. In Taiwan, we thank our fathers on August 8. In Chinese, the number "eight" sounds like "dad," so it is on the eighth day in the eighth month of a year.

The date of Father's Days may be different around the world, but most people celebrate it with cards, delicious food, and nice gifts. Most importantly, it is always a day to spend with family.
