※第 27-28 題：

Do you feel it's hard to get up early for school and even harder to listen well in the first class at 8 a.m.? Well, this happens to most of us and is not helpful for our learning! Some studies show that teenagers' brains(大腦) make melatonin(褪黑激素) and it helps sleep between 11 p.m. and 8 a.m. So it's better for us to sleep during these nine hours. But here comes the problem. We're asked to get to school by 7:30 a.m. That means we have to get up before 7, when our brains should still be sleeping. That's why we're always so tired and can't think clearly in early morning classes. No clear head, no good learning, right? If we can't change how our body works, why can't school start later? In this way, we can sleep more and learn better!

27. What problem is the reading trying to say?

- (A) Classes start too early in the morning.
- (B) High school lessons are too difficult.
- (C) Too many students are late for school.
- (D) Lunch break is too short for taking a rest.

28. What can we learn from the reading?

- (A) Too much melatonin can hurt teenagers' brain.
- (B) The brain stops making melatonin after 11 p.m.
- (C) Sleeping longer helps the body make more melatonin.
- (D) It is easier to fall asleep when the brain is making melatonin.
