認識未來肉品	Meet the Future Meat

Opossums are cool animals. They look like giant rats, so people sometimes mistake them for rats. Opossums have short ears, small eyes, and small bodies. Unlike rats, they only belong in the wild.

Opossums run around at night and look for all kinds of insects, rats, and mice. They help keep the environment healthy and clean by eating these animals.

Opossums are excellent at climbing. When they eat, they hold their food with all four feet. However, they can't climb and hold the food at the same time, so they hang from branches by their tails. This way, they can stay safe from dogs, red foxes, and large snakes when they eat. When opossums are in danger, they run, growl, and bite. When all else fails, they "play possum" and pretend(假裝) to be dead.

Baby opossums stay in a special pouch(育兒袋) until they can leave it. They stay with their mothers for about 100 days. When a mother opossum is hunting, the baby comes out of the pouch and climbs on her back. That way, the baby will not hinder(阻礙) its mom's action.

People see dogs as our best friends, and they can help a lot in many ways in our lives. Here are four kinds of special dogs.

Guide Dogs

They are trained to help blind people live on their own. They are also called "seeing eye" dogs. Dogs cannot see colors as well as people, so they cannot read traffic lights. The blind must use their ways to tell if it is safe to cross a street.

Hearing Dogs

They help deaf people who have hearing problems. They are usually big and are trained to tell their owners when they hear important sounds. Their owners usually don't train them by themselves. The sound can come from doorbells, fire alarms, or telephones.

Police Dogs

They are trained by the police to help police and the law enforcement(執行) people. If a police dog is killed when working, it is given a full police funeral(葬禮). They can even search for drugs. Search-and-rescue dogs are one of the kinds.

Australian Cattle Dogs

They do things when hearing owners' particular signs or words. Their size isn't big but muscular and strong. They are trained to keep the cows in certain space, and sometimes make the cows travel longer. They like outdoor activities, so they are not served as pets at home.

(體育課時)	(During PE class)
信：快點，寇弟。把球傳給我。	Shin: Come on, Cody. Pass the ball to me.
寇弟：給你…哎呀，對不起。	Cody: Here... oops, sorry.
信：你是男生，不是嗎？為什麼丟球像個女生一樣？	Shin: You're a boy, aren't you? Why do you throw like a girl?
潔米：你這話是什麼意思？我是女生，而我可以丟得很好。我得到的分數比你多，不是嗎？	Jamie: What do you mean? I'm a girl, and I can throw well. I got more points than you, didn't I?
由紀：大家都有擅長和不擅長的事物。對寇弟好一點。	Yuki: Everyone is good and bad at something. Be nice to Cody.
信：對不起，各位。我只是想贏得比賽，但我沒有理由那樣說話。	Shin: Sorry, guys. I just wanted to win the game, but there's no excuse for me to speak like that.
寇弟：沒關係。我現在沒事了。	Cody: No worries. I'm good now.
(下課時間)	(At break)
潔米：嘿，寇弟。科學展覽會就快到了。你要不要加入我們這組？	Jamie: Hey, Cody. The science fair is around the corner. Do you want to join our group?
寇弟：你確定嗎？我自然科學從沒拿到好成績。你知道我昨天的考試不及格嗎？我怕我會拖累你們。	Cody: Are you sure? I never get good grades in science. Do you know that I failed the test yesterday? I'm afraid that I will hold you back.
潔米：少來了！成績不是一切。很多成功的人士，像是比爾·蓋茲，在學校成績都沒有很好。他說他在學校從來不是最好的，但現在那些頂尖的學生都為他工作。	Jamie: Come on! Grades are not everything. Many successful people, like Bill Gates, didn't do well in school. He said that he was never the best in school, but today the top students work for him.
由紀：潔米說的沒錯。你既聰明又有創意。我覺得那比較重要。	Yuki: Jamie's right. You're smart and creative. I think that's more important.
寇弟：好吧，兩位。算我一份！	Cody: OK, guys. Count me in!
潔米：太好了。我們明天開工，來開第一次會吧。	Jamie: Great. Let's begin by having our first meeting tomorrow.

Are You _____ Your Kids These Gender Stereotypes?

Have you heard about Gender Baby Food? It comes from special flavors(口味), such as Anti(反)-Gay Grape, Submissive(順服的) Spinach, and Big-Boys-Don't-Cry Carrots!

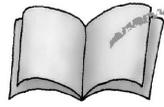

Gender Baby Food is invented to remind parents allowing their kids to become who they really are. Sometimes parents don't notice the little things they say actually teach stereotypes on kids. When it comes to early development(發展) in children, people believe that feeding kids how their parents grew up is the most likely way. When parents tell a little girl that she should dress up like a princess or a little boy can't cry, he or she might have pressure.

Parents choose what to feed their kids. They should choose to feed kids openness(開放) and discussion(討論) instead of stereotypes. They have to create a safe world, where boys can comfortably play with makeup and girls can become baseball judges freely. Gender Baby Food hopes people can create a warm society(社會) for children to respect others and be whoever they really are.
